EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Steamer Burned.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—The Staten Island steamer A. J. Morris took fire on the down trip this afternoon. The fire was caused by overheated machinery. The pilot ran her ashore on the flats. Passengers and hands were removed to small boats. Two men were badly scalded.

Railway Collision—Loss of Life.

PITTSBURG Pa., Nov. 18.—This morning a collision occurred on the Pittsburg Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway, between a construction train and a west bound freight train a few miles east of Denison Three employes were killed and two others seriously injured. The accident was caused by the engineer of the freight train disregarding signals.

Fitting Up Naval Vessels.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 18.—Considerable activity prevails at the Gosport navy yard. Orders are received from Washington to thoroughly fit out the [illegible] with all possible dispatch.

Jesse Richardson.

St. Louis, Nov. 17.—At the McDonald trial to-day W. D. Thorpe testified that he was storekeeper at [illegible] distillery and while there, McDonald told him to see that 40 gaus were run according to law. If any violation occurred, he would stand the blame. Walsh at Chouteau's distillery, Joyce told him he had to make crooked whisky and pay so much per bbl. Joyce and to pay no attention to McDonald's instructions. The whisky was put down about 90 barrels of crooked whisky were made monthly at Jonesville at $60 per barrel that being the agreement made on that distillery. Some [illegible] couldn't be made, and then Joyce and he and demand reasons for Joyce told witness he was taking [illegible] Washington, Babcock Avery others, and the money was used for political purposes. Joyce would come [illegible] special agent saying the [illegible] Washington wanted more and must have it. He [illegible] witness $100 occasionally for the [illegible] Washington. The parties named by Joyce [illegible] Babcock, Avery, Attorney Parker, U. S. Marshal Newcomb, Geo McDonald, Major Gardner, Pitkyrey, chief clerk in the U. S. collector's office, W. McKee of the Globe Democrat and Courtnaine Maguire C. S. collector. Witness did not know how the money was distributed after it [illegible] Henry Stone and Charles Bradlaugh. The proceedings were then interrupted with a prospect of a large increase to-morrow.

Report of the Commission Appointed to Purchase the Black Hills.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—The Tribune this morning publishes in full the report of the commission appointed to negotiate with the Sioux nation for the cession of the Black Hills. The document is of a highly interesting and important character and only giving a history of the futile attempt to [illegible] purchase the gold region but presenting for the consideration of Congress a comprehensive scheme for the advancement of the Sioux by inaugurating the education of their youths compulsory and requiring such Indians to perform labor as a condition or help his receive Congress is asked to fix and appropriate a sum equivalent to the value of the Hills which amount shall constitute a portion of the fund yearly to be used to carry out the suggestions of the commission a further requirement being that every Indian be [illegible] to the acquisition and protection to the possession of private property. The Indians now in the northwestern part of Nebraska are to be removed to the reserva tion established by the treaty of 1868 where the land suitable for agriculture can be found and supplies furnished. Supplies should be furnished under the supervision of officers of the army. A wise recommendation is that the present agencies be abolished and the whole system be reorganized so far as relates to the Sioux Indians and that such compensation to officers and agents be provided as will command honesty and capacity. The Indians are to be informed that such force as may be necessary will be used to enforce compliance with the policy of the government to the end that the Indians may become civilized and self supporting the government is to take upon itself the duty of paying the Indians a full and equivalent price for the Hills. Taking into consideration all the circumstances, and such sum to be paid to become part of the fund required in the general plan to educate and civilize the Sioux.

Meeting of the National Grange.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 17.—The National Grange met at the Galt House to day with a full delegation present from all the states and territories with the exception of one or two from which the delegations are expected to-morrow. There is no delegation from the dominion of Canada as the granges in every town belong to the jurisdiction of the nation al body. The address of welcome was delivered by Worthy Master M. D. Davis of Kentucky who was responded to by W. M. Dudley and W. Adams of Iowa Master of the state Grange followed by Lecturer T. A. Thompson with a long report of his labors for the year. So other business was done save the arrangement of the number of delegates each State is entitled to and an amount of dues to be paid by each State Grange to the National Grange. The grange will continue in session seven days or more.

Propeller Burned.

BUFFALO, Nov. 17.—The propeller Hoboken was burned this evening. Cause unknown. Value $25,000.

WASHINGTON CITY

Spain Makes a Concession.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The Spanish minister to-day was officially advised from Madrid that his government has directed that the American citizens on trial before a court martial in Cuba shall have the privilege of selecting counsel for their defense. The treaty of 1795 in the opinion of the Spanish government was not sufficiently definite to meet cases of court martial in the event of war or insurrection in the island. The present arrangement settles the question to be acquiesced with the desire expressed in the friendly note addressed by Secretary Fish to the Spanish government, and disposes of the exasperating reports in this subject.

Trial of W. S. King.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—To-day of all the criminal court called attention to W. S. King indicted for perjury in connection with the Pacific Mail subsidy. He stated that early in the term the case had been continued in consequence of Col. Irwin being absent in Europe. Irwin was now in the country and his attendance will probably be secured and King was anxious for a speedy trial. The case went over with the understanding that the district attorney would be ready for trial soon. He instructed Gen. Butler, principal counsel for King, will be present.

Good for Zach Chandler.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Secretary Chandler authorizes a sweeping and explicit denial to the wide spread assertions that he made or is making removals in the interior department for failures to contribute to campaign funds and in addition to be wise with reference to dismissals of officers employed in the patent office that they were made for cause, and in no way based on personal or political considerations.

Condition of the Vice President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Vice President Wilson is comfortably last night and saw he much improved. He feels able to go out but is restrained by his physician.

A Whole District Quarantined.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Reuter's Telegram Company states that a case of cholera has been [illegible] and the whole district has been quarantined.

Rain in San Francisco.

Total rainfall here to date 5.13 100. The volume of rain has burst the sewers in various localities and the streets paved with Nicolson & Stowe wooden pavement are much damaged. Some delay is occasioned to mails coming to the city. The overland train arrived four hours behind time last night. The San Jose train was unable to get through on account of the washing away of a bridge. North Pacific passengers failed to put in an appearance yesterday on account of the storm. Shipping in the bay has ridden through the gale without damage.

The Storm on the Overland Road.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—A dispatch from Reno says it is cloudy and cold on the mountains. The wires are reported badly down east of Evanston. It is still raining at Salt Lake rain and snow at Elko.

Heavy Earthquake.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 19.—The earthquake of last Monday was very severe between here and Yuma. At Colorado stage station and several adobe houses in Indian Wells were thrown down. At New river a portion of the building fell in and at Gardner's part in one of the buildings were shaken down. The heaviest shocks were about 9 P. M. but lighter ones continued all night at intervals until 3 o'clock the following morning.

Weather Items.

It rained again last night pleasantly to-day but did nothing up to night. Grass is growing finely and ground in good condition for plowing.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—It rained steadily from 7 to 11 A. M. The afternoon and evening were showery and the sky threatening. The last rain visited Wilmington, Spadra, Santa Monica, Arcadia and all other parts of Los Angeles county.

The Turf.

Spain's Reply to Cushing's Note.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A Herald Washington special dated yesterday says the reply of the Spanish government to the note of Minister Cushing was promptly transmitted to the Secretary of State. Department and dispatched there this morning. It [illegible] by calling attention to the order which our government made in the matter of Arango's interesting the Island of Cuba. And will [illegible] declare disposition to receive the indemnity [illegible] and [illegible] Spain and the United States. The tone of the reply is firm but very conciliatory. The justice of our demand is not ignored. The confusion and difficulties [illegible] a obstacle to the exercise of an impartial and prompt administration of the guilty. [illegible] treaty of 17[illegible] Spain defends her right to maintain court martials in Cuba and effect suppression of the question that the United States during a [illegible] time subjected the Indians to [illegible] and Fraser [illegible] years ago [illegible] the crushing of the republic [illegible] the same and even then under the mild [illegible] made use of similar extraordinary [illegible] to [illegible] it just to punish [illegible] rebellion. In the case of France these tribunals sometimes [illegible] to be [illegible] as reported [illegible] over 1000 persons and yet [illegible] executed their [illegible] after the close of the war, and this [illegible] of rebellion. Therefore Spain in the midst of her war in Cuba maintains the right of [illegible] court martials to try officers against her laws but readily makes the concession that American citizens shall have their only counsel or attorneys and [illegible] while [illegible] in their own [illegible] according to the provisions of article [illegible] of the treaty of 1795 according to the regular course of procedure in such cases, and gives guarantees of such a mode of defense. Of course in the case of Spanish subjects no ex option will be made which will allow them the enjoyment of this advantage in defending themselves against persecution by Spanish authorities. For this reason these cases the privateers will be designated by the chief military authority or the captain general will appoint them. The above is a full synopsis of the answer of the Spanish government in reply to Mr. Cushing, and has been received in authoritative circles as to warrant the countermanding of orders originally given to put our navy in preparation for such a contingency as a misunderstanding between the two governments.

OREGON

On account of the drift wood, the steamers have been taken out of the basin at Oregon City.

After a session of two days and finding one indictment the grand jury of Benton county adjourned.

The Bonita last Tuesday brought down the river to Oregon City 300 tons of freight—the largest cargo ever freighted on the Upper Willamet.

Mr. James Bates residing near Jefferson Marion county fell from an apple tree on Thursday and broke his leg. Mr. Bates is one of the oldest pioneers of the State, having come to this coast many years ago in the employ of the Hudson Bay Co.

The Ladies' Centennial Committee for Benton met at Corvallis November 6, 1875. Rules of antiquity works of art and fancy work of all kinds are earnestly requested. Pressed leaves wild flowers mosses grasses ferns and all plants common or peculiar to our State are desired.

The Hillsboro Independent says: What a huge burlesque is Dame Nature making now. Here it is the snow three inches deep and still a snowing and blowing like sin, with the grass growing fresh and tender, tomatoes green and the ripe and pear trees still loaded with fruit. The old girl ought to be ashamed of herself, so she ought.

Harry Webber, the young man who was some time ago arrested in Albany and taken to The Dalles to be tried for horse stealing has been entirely exonerated from the charge, the grand jury having failed to find an indictment against him. And what is better, another party was convicted of the offense, which completely clears up any suspicion which might rest upon young Webber in regard to the matter.

Within the past two months the diptheria has been very fatal among the children about Brownsville the following being a partial list of those who have died from that disease: H. L. Hill lost three children. Thos. May, one. Mr. Crott, two. J. B. Gross, one. Fred. Smith, one; Mr. Hyde two. W. B. Bishop, one. James B. Sherry, one. Two of Mr. Stanard's children are lying very low, and it is possible that there are others who are stricken with the same disease.

The Corvallis Democrat says: "This place was visited, on Tuesday, by a terific wind storm, which did much damage, prostrating fences and damaging fruit and ornamental trees. The wind mills used for pumping water for the fire cisterns were demolished the weather vane on the spire of the Presbyterian church was blown down, signs were loosened from their fastenings, and we understand several old unoccupied buildings were also blown down."

The commissioners appointed by the Washington county court to locate a ditch to drain Wapato Lake met and performed that duty last Monday. They had a pretty wet time of it, having to wade through lakes and swamps nearly a mile of the way all of which will be drained by the ditch in addition to the big lake. The commissioners decided that the ditch would be a great benefit to all the lands through which it passes, and no damage to any one. The ditch will be 5,740 feet in length.

The McMinnville Reporter says: From Mr. Litchfield of Grand Ronde, we learn that there was an unusually large snow fall in the coast range of mountains to his seddle and from the appearance of the mountains as viewed from this place we should judge the supply of snow had been distributed about equally along the range. On Tuesday there were three feet of snow in the mountains, at the same time there was a copious sprinkle of it in the valley and when the heavy rain set in late on Tuesday, washing the whited earth brown and bare with one fell swoop—as it were—we had about half a notion to "go halves" with that prophetic gentleman some where in Oregon who announced a big flood on this winter's programme. However the deluge has descended very gently up to this time and although the river is rising rapidly no disastrous inundation is imminent.

The Albany Register says: "A small hurricane visited this part of the country Tuesday afternoon blowing a pretty stiff breeze during the afternoon and until late in the night. The first blast was probably the heaviest and it lifted the tin roof from the brick building occupied by Messrs. Clark & Wyatt, and flung it into the street. Wm. Gird's cloth style awning was torn into shreds in a jiffy. Signs were blown down, houses were rocked to and fro by the strength of the blasts, and for a few moments a good many people held their breath and asked what next?" A fine residence in the course of erection in the eastern suburbs near Buckleman's grove, belonging to Mr. Clark was blown over. We were unable to ascertain the amount of damages sustained. The handsome dwelling in course of erection by Geo. Patterson near Professor Warren's, was moved from its foundations and considerably racked. Another dwelling in the vicinity of the college sided up. But upon which the roof had not been placed was taken from its pins almost in the twinkling of an eye.

SARATOGA, Nov. 19.—The third trial of Mollon Sheparlson for robbing Wells Fargo & Co's treasury box in 1871 [illegible] Wednesday evening after a three weeks siege. The jury after being out thirty six hours rendered a verdict at 10 o'clock this morning of not guilty. Immediately after his discharge from custody, Detective J. B. Hume arrested him on a requisition from the governor of Oregon on a charge of being implicated in a robbery alleged to have been committed in that State. The trial has been a very interesting one.

AN OUTSIDER'S OBSERVATIONS.

[GIVEN BY ONE WHO COUNTED ONLY FOUR IN A PINCH.]

OLYMPIA, Nov. 16, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I am a spectator independent in politics and [illegible] a looker on in Venice. The doings of our Territorial legislature, which happily for itself and the people generally has adjourned have been mysterious and until the denouement on the day of its close to outsiders at least [illegible] puzzling out. You have doubtless been advised by your regular and able correspondent from this place that heretofore it has been the custom for the two houses of the legislature in joint session to elect certain territorial officers and that Congress at its last last session (Revised Statutes Section 1847) repealed the law authorizing such election and to place this Territory on the same footing with other Territories in this respect empowered the Governor by and with the advise and consent of the Council, to appoint such officers. Early in the session, the Governor sent into the Council the nomination of certain very competent gentlemen for these positions, and asked the Council to confirm the same. This the Council very promptly and as it had a perfect right to do, refused. Within a few days there after other names were sent in and the council, very discourteously to the governor, postponed action on them until the last day of the session intending thereby as is presumed, to reject the appointees at the very last moment when too late for other nominations to be sent in and thus exhibit the present incumbents to hold over. In their ardor to compass their purposes in their own way, it seems not to have occurred to the council that possibly the means they were using to defeat the governor's nominations would in the end redound to their own discomfiture by placing men in these positions without the council passing upon them at all. And this would have been the result had the combination formed by a majority of the council held out to the end for immediately after adjournment the governor's appointees (and he could have appointed whomsoever he pleased) would have, as their only remedy, applied to the court for a mandamus compelling the turning over to them of these offices. The favorable result of such application under the law and with the precedents to govern would not, by capable lawyers for a moment be doubted. Imagine

The Council was divided politically as follows: four Democrats four Republicans and one Independent (?). The four Democrats and one Independent before organization had for the object of rejecting the Governor's nominations, as before detailed, and for other purposes, as will presently appear, formed an alliance, offensive and defensive, against the Governor the Republican party, the Congress and President of the United States, and everything and everybody except themselves and their five little axes which they wished to grind. Believing in the axiom that "in union there is strength," they combine their forces and prepare for action. Like a procession of Fitzhopes they advance to their work with military chieftain at their head and a knight of the last at the foot, each with his little pet measure to get through. One was agitated with military glory, and returning to ways of peace, longed only for the combat of the Senate. That commendable ambition which should burn in the breast of every true American was consuming the bosom of this soldier and herculean statesman, and the nation appreciating his great services in flood, field and forum, made him President. Even notwithstanding these honors, the poet's conundrum: Why should the spirit of mortal be proud? is still unanswered.

Another was also ambitious and wished to enroll his name in capital letters on the map of his country but has unappreciative colleagues with a sense of obligations to that old Spaniard for his little excursion of 1492 declined to call the new county Columbia. A third in stentorian tones alternately begged and demanded an appropriation of twenty thousand dollars, with which to construct a road over the Cascade mountains virtually thereby closing the Columbia river destroying the trade of Portland and building up on the waters of Puget Sound a rival of San Francisco. This senator was evidently laboring under the hallucination that his colleagues were deaf and for the relief of his own lungs would gladly have voted an appropriation to supply them all with ear trumpets. He reminds the writer of a scene he witnessed years ago. A very small man, a preacher with a loud voice was delivering a temperance lecture to a large and apparently an appreciative audience. When he had concluded and was being congratulated by his friends for his effort an acquaintance of his who had heard the lecture a man of acknowledged ability, who had served in Congress and on the bench, but who unfortunately was addicted to strong drink, approaching the lecturer and extending his hand said "Parson Rush allow me to congratulate you. By G—d, Sir if you only had my brains with your voice you would be the greatest orator in the State."

A fourth, the prime mover and ring leader of the combination, and the would be Warwick of Democratic politics was unfathomed by considerations which commend themselves to ambitious minds, but devoting his heart to the cause of humanity, his Jove like powers were enlisted in alleviating the condition of the unfortunate and in unsolacing to minds diseased" on the contract system.

The fifth, and the tillman of this quintette was anxious to legislate like a true disciple of Lycurgus by establishing courts of justice for a half dozen or so of his friends and patrons at the expense of the tax payers of the Territory.

But did these Solons consulting the patriotism of their revolutionary sires who from their fields and workshops at their country's call, flew to her aid succored Burns has said the best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft agley. And so with this. The president was elected and the court built at much opposition passed. There was no objection, by unbiased persons so far as I have heard to this action of the combination. Though I do not know, I have been told the president discharged his duties fairly and impartially, and that the court bill was an improvement on the law as it existed before, but beyond this the alliance as it ought utterly failed.

The sectorian Senator, after the failure of his pet scheme and under a pressure from his constituents expressed by letters in the strongest language regarding the present system of keeping the insane, erected from the ruins and boldly proclaimed that it [

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING NOV 20 1875

LAST YEAR THIS YEAR AND NEXT YEAR

There was a deal of wayward voting on the part of those opposed to the Democratic party It indicated no return of popular confidence in that party, but was simply a protest against abuses practised by "managers" on the Republican side The Democratic victories last year were therefore merely accidental, so far as they related to the future status of political parties. But they turned the heads of the Bourbon politicians and party managers who thought they saw in their unexpected majorities, conclusive proof that the country was with them Consequently they imagined they had full license to follow the promptings of partisan instinct. But they forgot that it was against narrow partisanship that the people had just protested It was not the design of the country in rebuking the abuses of Republican partisanship, to allow the introduction of worse abuses by the opposite party What disposition had the Democracy shown in any State where they were in power to lift public affairs above subserviency to party interests? Their record in New Hampshire, in Ohio, in Missouri, and in other States, shows that party, always and everywhere is the first motive with them Why was the attempt made to seize the Legislature of New Hampshire, and nullify the will of the people? Why was Senator Schurz, an able and conservative statesman, set aside in Missouri, and a man of small abilities, whose only recommendation is his extreme partisanship and his record as a Confederate officer, put in his place? Why were all the cities of Ohio placed in the hands of Democratic police? And in addition to these significant straws, why did the Democratic party in two of the greatest States of the Union reaffirm its old heresy of inflation and make an attack upon the financial honor of the country?

These things were proof to the country that the Democratic party was still unfit to be trusted with the government They demonstrated that there was still in that party a vast unexpected balance of political iniquity Recognizing these facts, the country in the late elections made terrible havoc of the hopes of the Democratic managers, who fondly supposed they saw a national victory just ahead and already within their grasp. The New-York Times says that "a Democratic national administration is no longer among the probabilities, hardly among the possibilities of the immediate future" Certainly, if the Republicans act with common judgment and and discretion, there is little room to doubt that they will elect the President next year, as the Democrats are already repudiated and it is too late to think of putting a third candidate in the field with the hope of securing a respectable popular vote Concerning the new rumors about a third term for Grant, we may say that they seem to us at this time almost wholly sensational That he will be renominated we do not for a moment believe Were it for a second term his renomination would be very probable, if not quite certain, but the traditions of the country against more than two successive terms, are so strong that no man could be chosen for a third, unless through the inconceivable folly of the opposition The Republican party can elect next year any fairly representative man. Its success could be made doubtful only by the acceptance of a third term scheme This would be a blunder, and a needless one. We do not believe there is the smallest danger that the party will walk into it

THE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

We publish this morning an address prepared by Judge Deady, by direction of the Library Association, which should receive careful attention The condition of the Library, as shown in this address, is certainly such as to satisfy any one that the business affairs of the institution are carefully and prudently managed Considering the limited population on which reliance must be placed for means to keep the Library up, its success thus far has been remarkable. But it must be remembered that through the generosity of Mr W S Ladd, the Library rooms cost no rental, which saves the largest item of the expenses ordinarily involved in sustaining a public library

The call is now for such further assistance as will enable the directors to keep the Library up with the times, besides making needed additions to the collection of standard works This call should not be refused There is no way in which those who are able to spare a small sum can make it do more good for their neighbors or purchase more pleasure to themselves. What citizen of Portland possessing some means, would not advance $250 or $500 sooner than see this Library abandoned It is the pride of our young community But it is quite as important that it grow and extend its benefits still further, as that it be kept up to its present condition. We hope those of our citizens who can afford to respond to this call—and many can afford it who will not at first think they can—will take hold with a will and fill out the required number of perpetual memberships without delay

It is not a grateful work to call to memory the follies of one who has gone from the earth A generous mind does not enjoy the work of stirring up the ashes of the dead But sometimes occasion comes when one seems called upon by a sense of his duty to society to present before the public mind so much of the weakness of one who is no longer among the living as may serve to warn others It is under these circumstances and from these motives that a correspondent refers to the weak place in the character of Capt. Howell of the ill starred Eagle It may be that the use of ardent spirits had nothing to do with that terrible disaster No one can say that such was or was not the case It requires very great strain upon the imagination however to account, on this theory, for the apparent lack of self command and presence of mind shown by the captain when, on a calm clear night with abundant means of escape, between 200 and 300 people perished in an unnecessary wreck. The bare suggestion of such an explanation of so fearful a calamity should make every officer of a ship pledge himself never to touch intoxicating drinks on board or in port

Zack Chandler gives the emphatic denial to the reports of his dismissal of employes in the Interior Department on account of politics, or because they refused to contribute to campaign funds That is good news. If he will only keep that tick a few months, we shall feel called on to make the amende honorable on an immense scale It is said people sometimes entertain angels unawares Would not it be wonderful if this should turn out to be one of the cases with Zach Chandler doing the angel role? Well if he will only make himself as acceptable as Jewell and Brewster and by the same methods we shall cheerfully give up all our prejudices against him and shall write him down an angel—or a brick—to the very best of our ability We have half a mind to take take it all back now, this announcement of the venerable blood letter is not going to do the first wicked job that has been laid out for him

Maybe the testimony in the McDonald trial at St Louis won't furnish any spicy reading for the latitude of Washington City If Gen Babcock is not incapable of the sensation of pleasure he will feel good to the ends of his toes on reading the testimony where his part in the performances of the whisky ring is explained Schurz will not dare call him any body's "body villain" after this

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV 20, 1875.

CITY.

SUICIDE ATTEMPTED —Yesterday afternoon a young man named John Jones entered the store of Wm Beck & Son on Front street and asked to look at some pistols Mr Beck supposing, that Jones desired to examine the weapons with the object of making a purchase handed him a small revolver It was a six barreled pistol, I X L manufactured by Messrs Hopkins & Allen and No 32 caliber Jones took the weapon, and after looking at it a moment and asking the price told Mr Beck to load it for him Mr Beck complied with the request, and handing the pistol to Jones, walked to another part of the store to wait on a customer who had just entered He had taken but a few steps before the sharp report of a pistol rang in his ears and turning around he saw Jones slightly stagger and then lean with his back against the show case A clerk, who was making some entries in a book was working only a few feet from where Jones was standing when he shot It seems that Jones, on receiving the loaded pistol from Mr Beck's hand walked several yards away toward the rear end of the store He then placed the muzzle against his left breast in the region of the heart and discharged the weapon The ball entered the breast, above the nipple, and ranging upward lodged near the shoulder Jones was removed to the hospital, where an examination of his injuries was made We understand that the wound is not necessarily fatal and there is a strong probability of Jones recovery The cause to be assigned for the rash act is not known at present

CALL FOR $1M —Bishop Morris desires to call the attention of the clergy and congregations of this mission to the appointment of a Thanksgiving service on the 25th of November, and, to remind them of the collection to be made He also calls attention in the Churchman to the service for Thanksgiving day and asks that that day may be made an occasion for sending contributions in kind to the hospital He suggests that a committee of two or three persons be appointed by the clergyman in each congregation to have charge of this matter, and to collect and forward such articles as may be contributed. There are now a total of 14 patients to be provided for and this number, it is believed, will be steadily increasing. The Bishop requests that the clergy will give early attention to this matter and hopes that generous contributions will come in to the relief of the winter's expenditures.

SUDDEN ILLNESS —Last evening about ten o'clock, while the jury in the case of Sohm vs Beck, pending in the circuit court of this city, were considering of a verdict one of the jurymen, Mr. M. B. Millard was taken suddenly and violently ill The attack seemed to be of an epileptic or apoplectic character and Mr Millard's friends were much alarmed The bailiff was quickly informed and Judge Shattuck called He discharged the jury at once and in charge of his physician Mr Millard was taken home, where at last report he was somewhat improved, and we hope to see him in usual health in a short time

PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY —The question "Resolved, that the form of government has a material influence on the literature or civilization of any people' was debated by the Philomathean Society last Monday, and after a full discussion was decided in favor of the affirmative. The society is prospering and invites at any time to welcome ally who may call in their hall, southwest corner of Third and Madison streets, their regular meeting being held every Monday evening

FORTHCOMING FAIR —One week from next Monday the Charity Fair in aid of St. Vincent's Hospital will open. Numerous ladies have been busily engaged for several weeks in the production of paintings, drawings, embroidery and an endless variety of fancy articles with which to adorn the several tables and the display promises to be among the finest ever offered in this city

ENTERTAINMENT —Multnomah Lodge No 12 I O G T, will give a public entertainment at an early day, committees being already at work on the programme for the occasion We are not advised as to the nature of the entertainment but are assured that every effort will be made to make the proposed entertainment worthy of public patronage

SNAG PULLER —The Champion hitched on to the snag puller at Buena Vista, on Thursday, and towed her to the locks at Oregon City. From there she goes to Portland where a donkey engine is to be put in with hoisting apparatus, when the snag puller will be enabled to do a much greater amount of work each season

A WRONG IMPRESSION —We are requested by Mr W W Baker to correct the impression that the Stock Journal has suspended publication It will be issued regularly from the office of A G Walling He also desires to say that by an error of the printer the last issue was dated September instead of October

MEETING OF COMMITTEE.—This afternoon at 4 o'clock, sharp, there will be a meeting of the Indian committee the committee to whom have been entrusted the arrangements for the forthcoming entertainment to be given for the benefit of the Y M C A. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the association

LIBERAL ASSOCIATION —The ladies of the Liberal Association have proposed for discussion at to-morrow's meeting the following question "Resolved, That woman is retarded in her development by present laws and customs They are to select one of their number to take the affirmative.

SONG SERVICE.—The song service under the direction of Prof. McGibeny will be held at the New Market Theater on Sunday evening at 7.30. Those who have attended the previous services need not be assured that the entertainment will be thoroughly enjoyable

TWENTY LIST.—The following letters remain uncalled for in Wells, Fargo & Co's office Dr H Arnold, Jos. Cadogan C W Craig Edward Dolan, S G Elliot, Geo H Hepburn Miss Kitty Howard, Mrs J Morriss, S W Wilson, Mr B Saunders

TAX ELECTION.—We have just received the vote of Curry county, from an official source which foots up as follows: Warren 75 Lane, 83; Whitney, 8, Dimick, 0 The official result for the State may be anticipated at any time

AMUSEMENTS

THE ENTERTAINMENT —Masonic Hall was packed last evening almost to suffocation on the occasion of the musical and literary entertainment, given there under the auspices of the ladies of the Unitarian church A varied and most excellent programme was rendered which proved entirely satisfactory to the large and refined audience Financially it was a grand success, and the ladies have reasons for self-congratulation over the gratifying result

THE SEANCE.—This evening the celebrated Jacobs Bros will appear at Oro Fino Theater in their wonderful and marvelous spiritual manifestations These gentlemen have travelled extensively over the Union and given their performances in hundreds of towns They come here bearing the highest encomiums from the press and public It is said that these gentlemen are equal if not superior to the celebrated Davenport Bros An overflowing house will, no doubt, greet their first appearance in Portland

Meadenhall & Magoon exhibited to us last evening, an immense number of live turkeys, which vary in weight from ten to twenty pounds each Besides these they have a secure number of chickens also in a healthy condition for Thanksgiving.

Call to-day at Central Market and see the finest display of beef mutton and pork at A R Johnson's stall

EDUCATIONAL.

REPORT OF PROF. S. W KING ITS SUPERINTENDENT.

The following report was recently submitted to the board of directors of the public schools and adopted

PORTLAND Nov 13 1875

To the Honorable the Board of Directors of the Portland Public Schools GENTLEMEN As my communication to the board the first of October concerning absenteeism and suspensions was not accompanied with statistics, I deem it proper to submit the following paper

Comparison of School Statistics for the Months of September and October of the years 1874 and 1875

Months	Average Days Absence	Times Sent Up	Number Enrolled
1874
September	1 220		168
October	1 670	1 091	180
Totals	2 890	1	180
1875
September	1 851½	72	186
October	1 956	230	201
Totals	3 807	480	387

A large majority of the absences during last month was occasioned by many cases of illness the four days holiday granted by proclamation and the State Fair

Number suspensions from September 21st to end of the month 7 number suspensions in October 22 number suspensions in November (to date) 2 whole number suspensions 31 whole number readmitted 17

OCCUPATION OF PARENTS

Two clerks 8 laborers 4 laundresses 2 machinists, 4 merchants 1 professional, 1 saloon keeper 2 unclassified

As only a few copies of the new rules and regulations were ready for distribution at the opening of the schools in September it was as late as the 17th of the month before a copy was placed in the hands of every patron—the principals agreeing to faithfully execute the 4th and 6th rules found on page six of your regulations from and after the 17th

It is truly encouraging to note that while the suspensions in October average one for each school for there have been only two suspensions during the present month

The principals are very sanguine that the battle is fought and that victory already perches on the banners of the public schools Were it not for the inclement season I think there would be only a few more cases of suspensions, but in consequence of stormy weather doubtless the attendance in the lower grades will be irregular These pupils who are irregular in their attendance come mainly from parents whose circumstances are such as to need frequently the services of the children who are able to work, and those who have the disposition to indulge their children in every whim and caprice

The board has judiciously made provision for the former class of pupils by requiring them to be absent from school to serve their parents on a pay teacher day of the week these pupils being required to attend school regularly on other days A hard lesson a deserved reproof a visit from a little friend a prospect of ruin a late morning nap and the expressed desire to remain at home, are all considered, by parents of the latter class of pupils, reasons sufficient for absence But regularity at recitations is necessary to exact and maintain interest and frequently it occurs that the teacher fails to awaken the mind and to enlist the attention, because the child does not attend long enough to take even a medium standing in his class This is seriously discouraging to a sensitive child If parents could be impressed with the advantages arising from regular attendance, and the evil consequent upon frequent absence much that is unpleasant to the teacher, who feels himself responsible for the progress of his pupil would be removed and they would find greater reasons to be proud of the attainments of their children I believe the patrons of our schools are now learning practically their first lesson in this direction and I think the record clearly indicates that they are profiting by it It is true that teachers differ in their ability to hold their pupils One may not have an absent pupil, while another may have several reported sick every day The one has both the minds and hearts of his pupils; the other has neither, the one, by study and research has something to interest his pupils the other contented to run in grooves deepened by ages is feeding his pupils on husks the one kindly writes positiveness on the heart, the other writes negativeness, the one has magnetic power the other the power of repulsion Prompt tardiness may not be a heroic virtue, but it is one which saves much worry and great inconvenience It is a prominent element in the character of an honest man a safe man, a reliable man The grocer the shoemaker and the carpenter do what they promise promptly therefore they are liked and trusted

The chord who can put his business into the hands of a lawyer feeling that although matters of great importance may intervene his will not be allowed to suffer by delay, is a fortunate man, the physician who answers promptly the calls of his patients will hold their confidence the husband who promptly returns to his home at the appointed time saves the wife much worry and domestic unhappiness serious derangement The exercise of this virtue removes the temptation to fret to worry, and to scold, in domestic and business transactions It gives confidence it saves time it leads to success it wins victories The man who is not prompt burdens himself deranges the affairs of his household needlessly turns day into night, loses credit in business sacrifices his friends and makes himself unworthy any public trust Promptitude is a golden virtue, and children ought to be required to practice it till it becomes an ingrained habit Our children ought to be educated with a view to make them useful when they come to occupy the positions of trust and honor which await them in the future cases of absence and tardiness should be reduced to the lowest possible minimum as well for the benefit of those who are prompt as for the good of those who need to learn the value of this virtue of promptitude by being compelled to practice it during their formative years

The decrease in the number cases of tardiness the increase of the number of pupils enrolled and the order, system and efficiency of all school work speak audibly in favor of the new regulations of the board and the work they are so auspiciously carrying forward

The following resolutions were adopted by the executive committee Nov 12th 1875

Resolved That thorough training, built itself obedience punctuality and promptness have been secured by faithfully executing the rules and regulations adopted by the honorable board of directors

Resolved That it is the sense of the executive committee that school should be placed in every class and recitation room under the jurisdiction of that board

Respectfully submitted

PUBLIC SCHOOL LIBRARY

To the Honorable the Board of Directors of S D No 1—GENTLEMEN Acting under powers in vested in a resolution, Sept 6 1875 relative to the organization of a public school library we have the honor after canvassing various plans to submit the following resolutions to be passed if acceptable to your board Very respectfully

E LITTLE
S W KING per E L

PORTLAND Oregon Nov 15, 1875

Resolved 1 That west room in 2d floor Central building be designated for the purpose of a public school library and reading room

2 That the teachers now engaged in the public schools of Portland and vicinity organize a library association for the purpose of carrying forward the object in view and libraries of the kind

3 When 12 or more teachers have signified their willingness to co-operate for this purpose the sum of $10 will be paid with necessary furniture fixtures and the sum of $50 and the sum of $25 the proceeds of an entertainment to July last will be paid into the hands of the association when organized as they see fit The pupils are also invited and they provide ways and means to contribute in proportion to their numbers and interest in the library

4 That the board shall have control of the property of school district No 1 and shall receive all money for the use of the library

5 That the chairman of the board of directors shall be ex officio president of the association and the secretary, ex officio secretary members of the association

6 If authorized by a vote of the district at the annual school meeting the directors will appropriate $100 a year to the purchase of books for the library

On motion of Mr Little the foregoing resolutions were adopted by the board of Directors of school District No 1 Nov 15 1875

FOR THE LADIES.

The black silk costume is more worn than ever, if such a thing is possible

Toilets made entirely of one material are frequently ornamented with heavy embroidery in different but harmonious shades or are trimmed with the metallic galloons so much worn in Paris and growing somewhat in favor here

Cashmere and silk, cashmere and velvet brocade and satin and for evening wear silk and gauze are numbered with the favorite combinations for costumes after the latest models, which do not admit of toilets of one material only

Black brocaded silk associated with plain gros grain furnishes the material for elegant dresses and is a newer though not a more popular combination than silk and velvet In these last the velvet constitute with equal propriety either the bodice or the overdress or the under petticoat

Lace is very little used upon bonnets except the cashmere echo lace which is very expensive it has its woven imitations and therefore is used sparingly The favorite ribbon is soft and loosely woven Very elegant ribbons are double faced thick and heavy as satin in fact are satin on one side and grosgrain on the other

The great reaction in the matter of outdoor toilets demands an addition to the costume of a cape sacque mantle or other separate wrap not worn in the house All these outside garments continue to grow larger, and are still much trimmed with soutache crochet braids and fringes and metallic galloons as well as the fur and feather bands

The polonaise triumphs over all attempts to put it down and comes again this season in another shape of exceeding grace The success of the pri cesse having been established in silks it is now being made up of the richest fabrics such as velvet brocade damask moire antique brocade camel's hair and Sultane The princesse is made in several shades

The modish bonnets are as graceful as they are admirable for good taste The brim is of the flaring hide shape but the crown is smaller and the sides resemble the long forgotten modest cottage bonnet in fitting the head so closely Strings are attached to the backs and women who hope to protect their ears this winter will find their hopes useless

The new polonaises so rarely seen in the imported suits are now universally recommended here by the modistes and are much worn The Marguerite back cut off in the middle seams to form a basque across the tournure, gives one of the most simple and at the same time favorite styles for this garment In all the shapes is noticeable the tendency to follow the French fashion in doing away with clab date and bouffant drapery

THE TURF.

The following letter will best explain itself

"As the purse given by the people of Walla Walla at the races commencing on the 27th of this month for $500, hung expressly for Foster and Osceola and Foster's own race—2 mile heats—do not seem large enough to justify his owners to take him there, I will make it an object for them to go first will pay his entrance on the purse and will bet them $1 000 or $2 000 more that Osceola beats him his own race (2 mile heats), and guarantee they can win all the money they can bring home if they can beat him I am here and ready to put up one half of the above amount, and the balance the morning of the race Come and see me Several have asked me and doubtless will the reason Osceola did not meet Foster at the State Fair I will explain The Union County Fair, where Osceola lives, came off the same week of the State Fair and the purses were better there than at Salem and I had quite a number of other horses to run for other purses, and stallions to exhibit, while the farmers and breeders who patronize them, had a right to demand their presence at their own Fair Besides, I was informed that Mr Bigham wrote a letter to Walla Walla stating that if they (the members of the Walla Walla Agricultural Society), had a fall meeting and hung good purses, he would bring Foster there and compete, which they have done for his benefit, and believing that he would be there Osceola came over to Walla Walla and is there now waiting for Foster

GEO COGGAN

The following dispatch was received here yesterday from Walla Walla Frank Good and races are certain to come off Monte Cristo is waiting orders The Boise horses are all here Horsemen will pay for Foster's entrance. There is an opportunity to make money on another race if Foster comes.

SATURDAY MORNING NOV 20 1875

THE BELL OF ST JOHN'S

In a huge and lofty foundry close by the wharves in the town of H— a gang of workmen were getting ready to cast the largest bell in the St John's Cathedral chime. Only at intervals were they would let the glaring, bursting, general flow from the huge furnace into the mould which was buried deep in the black sand close by.

It was just at evening and in the gathering twilight the lurid blaze that burst from the top of the tall chimney flashed unearthly gleams upon the rough boring windows and house tops.

The scene within the foundry was weird and fantastic. Far away the forms of the workmen partly lighted by the yellow glare, moved about like Tartarean shades, and the sooty beams and ponderous chains crossing half black half golden under the glowing roof reminded the engines of the Cyclops under Mt Etna.

The town clock struck six. It was time for supper. At the men threw down their tools and ran and put on their outer clothing.

"Be back in half an hour sharp" cried the foreman. "We shall make the cast at a quarter of seven."

"All right sir" cried the men in response.

"I hear some of the town folks are coming down to see the work" said one.

"Nice," said another, "and it'll be something to open their eyes! There never was such a bell cast in this whole State as this one will be!"

In a moment more only one workman and the master were left in the foundry.

The former was to stay and watch the blast. He had brought a double allowance of dinner and he would make a supper on what remained.

"Perhaps woman can get the inventor to stay with you" said the master laughing. "I'll send her prepared to do so."

"Yes where is he?" returned the man in the same jesting tone.

"He's been round the works long enough to know when anything goes wrong. Hollo! Hollo! I say! Where's the inventor? Come here. Ah, there he is!" And in silent answer to the summons a shock haired fellow with large grey eyes and a pale, vacant face, appeared from behind a pile of castings. He had on his back a grey shirt much soiled with dust, and he wore a huge pair of pantaloons held up by a single suspender.

Well Mopus quoth the man George slapping him rather roughly on the shoulder, "I suppose you've got wit enough to help yell if anything's the matter?"

The young fellow looked stupidly around and nodded his head.

"Then sit here and look at that furnace and don't take your eyes off it."

The poor fool smiled and meekly did as he was ordered. Just as an obedient dog would he watched with his owner's eye.

A queer fellow was this Mopus stupid enough in ordinary things to need a world of watching but withal wonderfully fit to watch a furnace. He knew all the working of the foundry by what seemed a sort of brute instinct, though really his strange sagacity in these was a remnant of a once bright mind.

If anything happened or went in an unusual way, he would always notice it, and say what ought to be done though he could not tell, perhaps why it ought to be done.

Two years before he had been an intelligent promising lad. He was the son of a designer connected with the foundry company and had always been allowed free access to the shops, and to mingle with the men and watch their work. But one day a great lifting chain broke, with its load, and an iron fragment struck him on the head, inflicting a serious injury. From this he partially recovered, but only partially, for his reason was impaired. But his natural love for machinery and mechanical experiments remained, and as he regained his bodily strength he spent most of his time making small wheels and shafts and putting together odd contrivances, which he would exhibit with immense pride and satisfaction.

This peculiar trait in the young fellow gained for him the humorous title of the "Inventor." All the men felt a great kindness for him, even though their manner toward him was occasionally harsh and impatient.

Such was the person left to help watch the great blast for casting of the king bell of the chime of St John's. Faithfully he kept his place before the furnace, while the man George sat down at a little distance and began to eat his supper. Doubtless the latter intended to keep a general oversight, but he certainly gave the inventor's eyes do the most of the looking. Whether he felt a kind of reckless trust in the instinct of his half witted companion, or indolently concluded that nothing wrong could happen he was sadly to blame for charging himself so little with the important duty before him.

Not a word was said by either watcher and only the deep roar of the furnace was heard through the vast foundry.

George finished his supper and sauntered in to one of the tool shops to find his pipe. "Inventor" sat alone before the great blast. The one rational faculty of his feeble mind enabled him to comprehend what it meant and even something of the magnitude of the enterprise that was ripening inside those burning walls. He knew that the furnace was full of valuable metal and that close beside him lurked out of sight in the deep sand was the huge mould so soon to be filled with the precious cast. He knew and could see that all the channels for the flow of the fiery liquid were ready and that near the mouth of the furnace stood the long iron rod that was to be used when the moment came to let on the molten stream.

All this his limited thoughts took in by habit. Firmly conscious that something great was soon to be done, he sat with his eyes on the furnace, absorbed and intent.

Suddenly something startled him. There was a slight noise and a burning crack appeared near the top of the furnace. Then another crack and a reorching brick fell out and rolled to the ground at his feet.

The fool opened his mouth to shriek but so terrified was he that the sounds stuck in his throat, as if he had been in a bit of night mare.

A thin red stream followed the fallen brick and trickled down the furnace side like running lava. Then came another alarming noise and a thin gap half way down the masonry let out more of the hissing metal.

Where was George? Was the unfaithful fellow still hunting for his pipe? The furnace was bursting, with only a poor, half idiot lad left to guard it.

What could he do? He did what in his right mind would not have dared to do. Rushing to the mouth of the furnace he seized the long iron rod that stood near and tapped the vent. One desperate thrust with a sharp point up the terrible funnel—a few quick prying strokes! Stand back now! The confining clay fell away and the yellow white flood spurted out with resistless force. It leaped into the clay dimon troughs and hissed its way flaming down to the mouth of the bell mold.

The fool had done a deed worthy of a general on a field of battle.

Was it too late? Every moment new figures opened to the doomed furnace. Some of the upper vents toppled over. Still the metal poured out into the mold. But the waste was great from those gaping flaws. The pressure was relieved by the open vent, but also feeble multiplied continually. It was a race with ruin.

Poor Mopus stood powerless before the coming catastrophe. His knees knocked together and his head swam. A great heap of red hot bricks and rubbish fell at his feet. He had barely thought enough to get out of the way and save his life. He heard a wild sound of human voices in the distance; then an awful roar behind him, and he never and felt himself pressed by surges of seething fire. Sharp blistering pains pierced his flesh at a hundred points. The rest was all a horrible unintelligible dream. It was as if he had suddenly sunk into the earth and had been swallowed up forever.

By seven o'clock comparative quiet reigned again on the scene of the disaster. Hands hurried everywhere. The engines had quenched the flames that had caught the building, and the men blackened with smoke stood in silent groups about the remains of the furnace. It had fallen to pieces and nothing was left but heaps of steaming rubbish.

Poor Inventor who had been found with a tapping rod in his hands lying on his face in the same frightfully burned had been carried to his home.

It was said but the few words spoken uttered with no mild emphasis the natural wrath of the master and hands against the man George whose excuses for himself only exaggerated his offense.

See what has been done, said they a few days later as they stood in the half burned foundry. Five thousand dollars gone to waste in a minute! The best job in twenty years spoiled! The rascal to go hunting for his pipe, and leave that stuttering idiot to watch! Is that all he can say for himself? Out upon such carelessness! Why the boy didn't even know enough to bawl out, when he must have seen the furnace tumbling to pieces.

The master who had more at stake than the men of course felt the loss more keenly than they. He almost wept with smuggled grief and rage. Suddenly scanning the ruins caught his eyes among the debris and he cried out in a startled voice:

"Hallo! What's that? What's that?"

He snatched up a fragment of iron of the broken wish he had left from the furnace to the mould. There were traces of the stream of bronze still running in it. Then the possible meaning of the iron found in the ruined boy's hand flashed upon him.

"Bring me a shovel quick" he shouted.

A spade was put into his hands and he began nervously to heave away the hot mass that lay piled over the bell mould. It was a herculean task but he worked like a giant and three or four of his men took hold and helped him.

Brickbats ore slag and ashes flew in every direction. Presently the master's spade penetrated the sand. He felt something hard. He stooped down. The men leaped up like one half frantic and plied the shovels with redoubled energy tore away the remaining sand, disclosing what looked like a great metallic ring.

Men he cried out lifting has flushed face the bell is cast.

Who did this? asked every one and voice as soon as the cheering died away.

Come with me two or three of you" cried the master. "I think I know who did it. It's a miracle."

They hurried away to the home of the half witted boy. The attendant met them with her finger on her lips.

"The poor boy is in brain fever she said. "Does he say anything in his delirium" whispered the master.

"Oh yes he runs all the time from the big bell to the little. I hope it will kill him. I will kill he says."

The men exchanged glances. It was indeed true. The shock had cast the great bell of St John's. Just then the physician came out. Perhaps he will recover his reason by this shock of sickness he said. Such things have happened.

Do you think so? Pray heaven he may solemnly ejaculated the master and his men and they turned away deeply moved.

Two months later the great bell hung from a large derrick in the lathe room of the factory, and beneath it stood a heavy truck upon which it was about to be lowered. A silence fell upon the group of workmen as the pale face and feeble form of Inventor appeared borne in on a small reclining chair. He had recovered his reason, and was fast, ebbing back his strength. His large grey eyes instantly fastened themselves on the bell that so long had master piece whose making meant so much to him. They had told him the whole story of the casting and the disaster in the furnace but it all sounded like a wild romance to him.

I remember nothing that happened said he shaking his head with a smile. It's all new to me all new and strange—so strange.

Yes" said the master devoutly "it was God's hand."

Every eye turned upon the invalid. Some of the men felt almost afraid, it was so much like a resurrection to have him there among them the boy they had known so long, undertaken now a young man keen and intelligent, as if changed into another being.

I should like to strike the bell once. Two men lifted him up and put a small hammer in his hand.

He struck one gentle blow. A deep sweet mournful tone solemn as the sound of distant waterfalls, rolled from the great bell and echoed through the foundry. Tears filled the eyes of the rough men as they heard it.

Ah" said the master "there's a pall in that, and it may well be so here. Long may this bell praise God! He saved it in the ruins of the furnace by one wise thought in the ruins of a human brain. Our furnace is rebuilt, and behold, this dear boy has his reason again. The bell and the boy shall glorify God together."

"Amen" murmured the listeners.

Then the great bell was lowered, and as the truck was rolled away with its melodious burden the boy was lifted and carried after it, and both went out into the sunny day together the rough men standing in the door ways waving their hands.

"Little Inventor" afterward well proved his claim to the title so lightly given him in his unfortunate boyhood. His name is now read on many a bell whose matchless richness of tone his genius and skill in moulds alone created.—Rufus Sargent.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Financial.

FRIDAY EVENING Nov 19 1875

Gold in New York 114½

Legal tenders in Portland buying 86 selling 87

The local markets are unchanged since our last review and business to day shows some signs of falling off but this condition may be only temporary, and a revival or restoration to the activity prevailing before the late severe storm. There are but few who see positive indications of any unusual dullness in the future of trade and with the resources at command there is nothing in the outlook that ought to discourage any one with ordinary hopefulness and courage.

Our import trade has been kept up well and its volume shows a material progress in our commerce during the year now past while the steady growth of our foreign exports and domestic shipments is equally encouraging. The business men of Oregon would have no reason to complain if the past season had been one of only average prosperity for the country of the United States at large has fared even less prosperously than in 1874 as is indicated by the figures furnished by the Washington bureau of statistics showing a falling off in the imports during the nine months as compared with the same period in 1874 of $13 927 315 and a decrease in the exports of $7 179 776 representing a total loss of over $100 000 000. Values as a rule continue depressed and the tendency in all directions is toward economy and hard pan.

There has lately been a heavy demand on the bullion department of the Bank of England which the directors have endeavored to keep under control by raising the rates of discount. During last July and August the rates were 3@5 per cent. The present demand seems to have set in about the 1st September and the rate was steadily raised from 4 to 4 per cent on the 1st October. It has since remained at the latter figure though the work of depletion has been steadily going on. For the week ending on the 11th inst the bank lost £1 900 in bullion against £5 000 for the previous week. The amount of bullion now on hand in both departments is about £23 000 000 against over £29 000 000 three months ago. It is quite probable that the rate of discount will be further advanced within a week.

Liverpool Wheat Market

The following is our special telegram of wheat quotations direct from Liverpool:

LIVERPOOL Nov 19 '75

Our special Portland Telegram says wheat market closed as follows. Oregon wheat ex warehouse from 11s 6d to 11s 6d per cental; California club ex warehouse from 11s 3d to 11s 7d per cental. Oregon cargoes afloat on passage to the United kingdom. Is to 11s 7d per cental. The market is depressed.

HENRY JUMP & SONS

The above figures indicate a decline of 1d per cental on all classes since our telegram last week.

Domestic Produce

There is a slightly improved ceiling in some lines of domestic products and the demand for shipments has increased. The supply generally is better and though prices have not materially advanced there is more firmness in staples than was observed yesterday. But little news from abroad has been received to encourage any advance in breadstuffs but we learn that some exporters and millers of good lots are paying 87½ per cental. The Liverpool market has slightly improved since last Tuesday but is yet lower than one week. If that course advancing toward winter prices. The local market is provisions are ready and unchanged.

Both figures. Dairy products are in light supply at 1 from. Poultry is plentiful and prices low. Dressed hogs are quoted at 6@7, with an increasing demand. Hides are weaker at 5@6½. Dried fruits are steady with a better call for the best grades for trade and for shipment. Hops appear to be out of the market and choice lots are held at 20@22½ for prime to 30@35 for choice.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamer Oriflamme for San Francisco will sail at 4 o'clock to morrow afternoon.

Fourteenth Year of Publication.

PORTLAND

CITY DIRECTORY

For 1876.

THE PRESS AND WILL BE PUBLISHED ON OR about February 1 1876 the PORTLAND CITY DIRECTORY for 1876 containing full and Directory of Residents a Directory of East Portland together with a Business Directory and other statistics relative to the Progress and Industrial Condition of the City.

In finishing the FOURTEENTH ANNUAL ISSUE of the above work the publisher will spare no expense to render it FULLY RELIABLE and ACCURATE, his sole aim being to make the DIRECTORY useful to every citizen in Portland as a faithful annual index of the commercial condition of the city.

The CANVASSING FOR NAMES in this city and East Portland will be entrusted to reliable parties so as to ensure correctness in every detail.

Although the publication will be delayed until February the publisher hopes that the same liberal patronage may be extended to the coming edition that has been received during the past twelve years.

☞ Please report all items of new Business Removals etc at the office of publication.
